"The Portland office is among 60 public employment offices in the Nation designated as contact points in recruiting educators for the Department of Defense Dependents School System," according to Manager John G. Small.

The youngsters were racing to qualify for positions on the Maine Junior Alpine Team which competes against other New England teams for the honor of representing the East in the Junior National Championships.

Sponsored by the United States Eastern Amateur Ski Association, the Class I and II youngsters ran a challenging course of 47 gates for the boys and a shorter course for the girls. Betsy Christy, Kent's Hill Ski Club, won Class II, 14 thru 16, and Jan Thompson of the Edward Little Ski Club, Auburn, won Class I, 16 thru 18, for the girls.

Winning boys Class I for the second time in a row was Ivan Edwards of the Farmington Ski Club. First in Class II for the boys was Robin Wieg, also of Farmington. LLOYD K. ALLEN TO SPEAK AT ANNUAL MEETING OF B. A. D. C. ON FEB. 14

Prior to these assignments, he had served as city manager in several Maine cities and as a private industrial development consultant. OXFORD COUNTY INCOME GAINS MAKE UP FOR INFLATION, SAYS TAX FOUNDATION

How much more money must the average Oxford County family have at its disposal today to live on the same scale as it did ten years ago?

To what extent have rising incomes locally compensated for the reduced purchasing power of the dollar?

On the basis of data from the Tax Foundation and from other sources, local families have more than made up for that deterioration.

The great majority of them have incomes today that provide them with a higher standard of living than they enjoyed back in 1956.

According to the Tax Foundation's findings, a family that had an income of $4,000 in 1956 must have $4,750 today, 18.8 percent more, just to break even.

The $7,500 family must now be getting $8,825 and the $10,000 family, $11,764, to live on the same scale as before.

In Oxford County, the average family has done better than that according to the Standard and Data Service. From an income of $4,000, in 1956, it advanced to $7,052 by last year, an increase of 44.8 percent.

The local gain compares favorably with that reported for most other parts of the United States where it amounted to 40.1 percent in the ten-year period. In the State of Maine there was a 44.7 percent rise.

Steadily rising incomes have become a necessity if people are to meet the higher taxes imposed by all levels of government and to keep abreast of the year-by-year increase in the cost of living as a whole.

Throughout the State of Maine, according to the Tax Foundation report, state and local taxes rose from $149 per capita in 1957 to $233 per capita in 1965. It was a jump of 56 percent.

In the other sections of the country, the increases ranged from 37 percent, in Oregon, to a high of 119 percent, in Delaware.

During 1967, living costs are expected to keep rising. Social security taxes have already gone up and may go still higher before the year ends. Prices of most goods and services continue to climb. Also in prospect is an increase in Federal income taxes.

To keep pace, wages would have to go up. And the higher wages would add to production costs, forcing retail prices still higher, thus completing the inflationary cycle.

Gould Students—Misses Ruth Tebbets and Darlene Merrill pose with speaker Bill Clark and Headmaster Vachon, following the mid-day assembly, Monday, at Bingham Auditorium.

GOULD ACADEMY

Bill Clark, feature writer for the Portland Press Herald and the Sunday Telegram, and well-known author and lecturer, spoke Monday, Jan. 30, to an all school assembly in Bingham Hall. Elise Hatch, chairman of the Student Activity Council assembly com-say a few flakes. But most of us were surprised when cars with trailers and pick-up trucks came up headed for that noted retreat of Ketchum with Ski-doo, one, two or three and other snow travelers as well. All stopped at David Fleet's as the road crew had to stop and sand so had not broken out the rest of the road. Some trucks did go on but some took their Ski-Doo's and went the rest of the way and the road truck followed.

mittee, introduced Mr. Clark. His entertaining lecture stressed independence in thinking and acceptance of new ideas. About 40 students interested in meeting the author and lecturer stayed after the assembly for an informal discussion with Mr. Clark about journalism, writing, and general "life philosophy."

The Latin Club went into togas and ritual Monday evening to initiate fourteen new members who must first qualify by earning honor averages for a semester in Latin. Officiating at the ceremonies were President David Bouldrey, Vice President Ned Robertson, Secretary Cynthia Chapin, Historian Mary Jane Geronda, and Treasurer Raymond Powell. The officers, all in the roles of gods and goddesses, were assisted by other upperclassmen who have already earned their laurels and appeared as Roman gods or senators. New members initiated were senior Kay Butler; juniors, Peggy Churchill, Ruth Tebbets; sophomores, Scott Cummings, Nancy Reid, David Robertson; and freshmen, Judy Angeline, Becky Brown, Linda Hathaway, Susan Hatch, Susan Pierce, Diantha Plinkham, Craig Walker, and Brian Wentworth.

Headmaster Edmond Vachon congratulated Claire Bachelder in

Tuesday morning assembly for winning the 1967 Betty Crocker Homemaker Award by finishing first on an examination open to all senior girls. Claire is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Bachelder of Newry. She has taken the college preparatory course at Gould and enrolled in three home economics courses as electives. Claire has been active in sports each year at Gould, playing field hockey, volleyball, softball, tennis, badminton, and participating in apparatus, modern dance, and bowling. She is a member of the Gould chapter of Future Homemakers of America, the Latin Club, the Girls Athletic Association Council, the "Blue and Gold" newspaper staff, and the Biology Club. In addition to her versatility in extracurricular activities, Claire has been an honor student in most subjects. She has chosen nursing as her future study. Claire's award makes her eligible for possible state and national scholarships. She has the congratulations of her faculty and classmates for this award and for her overall fine school record.

Seniors who took the General Aptitude Test Battery during the first semester administered by the Maine Employment Security Commission, met with Mr. Cun-

Home Economics Award—Mrs. Roger Conant, Home Economics instructor, and Claire Bachelder, winner of the 1967 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow Award at Gould Academy.

Conductor Allan E. Gillespie and band members ate in the Gehring Hall dining room and were lodged at the Thunderbird Motel. The concert presented in Bingham Hall was enthusiastically received by a large audience.

BETHEL LIBRARY NEWS

More and more, Bethel people think of our library, whether weeding their library, passing on Christmas books, or coming across information that they feel others would appreciate. Kimball Ames has brought in a list of accommodations in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, compiled by the American Association of Retired Persons. We appreciate this, and will keep them on file for easy reference.

New books:

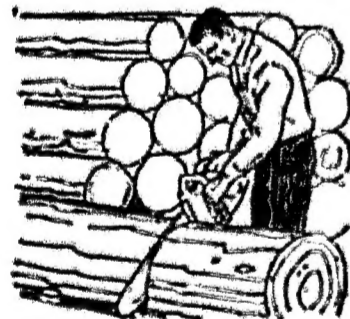

Adult-Fiction
"The Episode at Toledo," by Ann Bridge. A novel of international intrigue and romance.

Non-Fiction
"The Lowells and Their Institute," by Edward Weeks. A gift from Kimball Ames. This, in a broad scope, is the story of the New England mind and what the Lowells have done to cultivate it.

Junior
"Carnival in Paris," by Natalie S. Carlson. Each summer, Marc and Kelly Flandin left their aunt and uncle's home and joined their parents' circus.

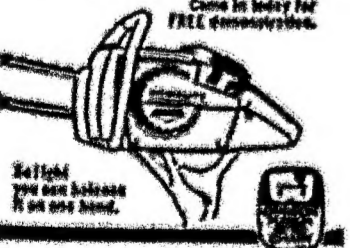

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to all for the cards and remembrances I received while in the hospital and nursing home.

Here's how New England's Big 11 Powerloop is shaping up— a progress report

1.5 billion dollar electric power network going up according to plan.

3. BRIDGEPORT, CONN. 400,000 KW unit to be in early 1968 complete. Will enter full service in 1968.
4. BOW, NEW HAMPSHIRE. 200,000 KW unit, has all of steel framework installed. Operational in 1968.
5. SANDWICH, MASS. 200,000 KW station now has steel framework up. Full service in 1968.
6. SOMERSET, MASS. 200,000 KW unit, all construction work and underground construction complete. Operational in 1968.
7. MILLSTONE POINT, CONN. 1,200 KW nuclear station, over 10% along in construction. Operational in 1968.

10. NORTHFIELD MT., MASS. 1,200 KW pumped storage hydroelectric for city to be completed in 1971. Preliminary engineering studies underway.
11. WISCASSET, MAINE. 200,000 KW Maine Yankee Atomic Power company nuclear station scheduled for 1971 service. Site selected. Municipal permit obtained. Air and water studies in progress. Field and design engineering underway.

SUMMARY OF PROGRESS: Construction well along on seven of the "Big 11" plants. Design work on remaining four plants advancing rapidly.

The Big 11 Powerloop is going up. It's the largest construction project in the history of New England, costing 1.5 billion dollars. It was planned and is being executed jointly by the investor-owned Electric Companies of New England. Two of the new plants will be in full operation before the end of this year and three more will be in service early in the next year.

By 1972 all 11 new electric generating plants will be tied together by more than 500 miles of extra-high-voltage lines, serving all six New England states.

These efficient plants and lines will continue the downward trend of electricity prices in New England — one more reason why New Englanders are turning more and more to low-cost electricity to heat their homes, cook their meals, heat water, dry clothes, and enjoy countless other benefits of modern all-electric living. And it's another reason why the future is bright in New England.

Sen. Muskie Reports

Do you ever write your Congressman to express an opinion on legislation, to criticize his voting record, or to seek his support?

I suspect many Americans feel that Congressmen do not read their mail, that a letter probably won't be answered or answered satisfactorily, and that one letter won't make any difference anyway. Based on my experience, these notions are wrong.

On several occasions, a single, thoughtful, factually persuasive letter has changed my mind. Most to a modern-day Congressman is more important than ever before. With increasingly long sessions, we rarely get to a time of home. Thus, my mailbox is the best "hot line" to Maine.

Here are some suggestions for Congressional mail:

—Address it properly. My address is: Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C.

—Identify the bill or issue. About 20,000 bills are introduced in each Congress so it's important to be specific. Try to give the bill number or describe it by popular title such as the "Water Quality Act" or the "Demonstration Cities Bill."

—The letter should be timely. Sometimes a bill is out of committee, or has passed the Senate before a helpful letter arrives.

—Concentrate on the Maine Congressional Delegation. We are your representatives in Congress and we are responsible to you. Your letters will have far less impact on Congressmen from other states.

—Be reasonably brief. Each year, my office receives more than 100,000 letters. All this mail must be answered. Your opinions will carry more weight if they are stated concisely. Please write legibly.

—Student letters are welcome. Some of the most interesting letters come from high school and college students. Their opinions are important to me.

—Write your own views—not someone else's. A personal letter is far better than a form letter or signature on a petition. I usually know what the major lobbying groups are saying, but I don't often know what the proposed bill will mean to you.

—Be constructive. If a bill deals with a problem you admit exists, but you believe the bill is the wrong approach, tell me what the right approach is. State-ments like "Vote against S. 100: it's badly opposed" don't help me much.

—If you have expert knowledge about it with me, I can't possibly be an expert in all fields. Many of my constituents are experts in some of them. I welcome your counsel.

—Say "Well Done" when it's deserved. Congressmen are human, and we appreciate a "Well Done."

—Don't make threats or promises, and don't berate your Congressman. You can't hope to persuade us of your position by calling us names. If you disagree with us, give reasons for your disagreement. Try to keep the dialogue open.

—Don't pretend to wield vast political influence. Unsubstantiated claims to political power will only cast doubt upon your views.

—Don't demand a commitment before the facts are in. Writers should bear certain legislative realities in mind: 1) on major bills there usually are two sides to be considered, and you may have heard only one; 2) the bill may be 100 pages long with 20 amendments in addition to the one you wrote about; 3) I may be forced to vote on the bill as a whole, weighing the good with the bad; 4) it makes little sense to adopt an unyielding position before a single witness has been heard or study made on the bill; 5) a bill rarely becomes law in the same form as introduced. It is possible that the bill you ask me to support would not have your vote when it reaches the floor.

EMPLOYERS ADVISED OF FLSA CHANGES EFFECTIVE FEBRUARY 1

Employers across the nation are reminded that amendments to the Fair Labor Standards Act became effective Feb. 1. The amendments cover the minimum wage and overtime pay for non-farm workers. The new minimum wage is $1.60 an hour, and overtime pay is 1 1/2 times the regular rate.

The amendments also cover the minimum wage and overtime pay for non-farm workers. The new minimum wage is $1.60 an hour, and overtime pay is 1 1/2 times the regular rate.

The amendments also cover the minimum wage and overtime pay for non-farm workers. The new minimum wage is $1.60 an hour, and overtime pay is 1 1/2 times the regular rate.

FOR NEWLY COVERED NON-FARM EMPLOYMENT, OVERTIME PAY IS DUE AFTER 44 HOURS A WEEK DURING THE FIRST YEAR FOLLOWING FEB. 1, 1967

Regional Director Wollaston noted that there are exemptions from the pay requirements. By way of example, he pointed out that newly covered hotel, motel, and restaurant employees are exempt from overtime, as are hired farm workers. The retail or service establishment exemption from the minimum wage and overtime provisions will continue to apply to establishments which are not in a $500,000 enterprise or, if in such an enterprise, have less than $250,000 in annual gross sales. The annual gross volume of sales standard will be reduced from $500,000 to $250,000 on Feb. 1, 1969. There is no minimum business volume test for coverage of construction firms, laundries and dry cleaners, hospitals, nursing homes and schools.

The amendments also cover the minimum wage and overtime pay for non-farm workers. The new minimum wage is $1.60 an hour, and overtime pay is 1 1/2 times the regular rate.

GOVERNOR PROCLAIMS FEBRUARY AS HEART MONTH IN MAINE

Governor Kenneth M. Curtis proclaimed February to be Heart Month in Maine it was announced Wednesday. Governor Curtis' Proclamation stated that "diseases of the heart and blood vessels are this State's and the Nation's Number One Health Enemy, accounting for more deaths than all other causes combined." "Leading heart authorities agree that medical science is on the verge of important breakthroughs to further control heart and blood vessel diseases."

"The Heart Fund is our best defense against these diseases supporting vital research and making possible professional and public education and community service to bring the benefits of new knowledge to all citizens."

Governor Curtis also urged "our citizens, in their family circles, to assist in achieving this goal by contributing generously to the Heart Fund Drive of the Maine Heart Association."

Harold F. Schurle, Augusta, State Heart Fund Chairman, stated that the Governor's Proclamation swings into motion the 1967 campaign in which more than 20,000 volunteers from 503 Maine communities will participate during the month of February.

On Monday President Lyndon B. Johnson, while proclaiming February as Heart Month said "heart and circulatory diseases were responsible, last year, for almost a million deaths throughout the nation". Johnson suffered a heart attack in 1954.

STATE OFFICIAL CITES NEED FOR RESCUE AND FIRST AID UNITS

The need for rescue and first aid units in Maine communities is cited by Paul Pactow, Accident Prevention Program Director for the Maine Department of Health and Welfare.

"Maine currently has 21 rescue units and some new ones are being organized," Pactow said, "but many more are needed to satisfactorily cover the state."

Consultation service and assistance in organizing is offered to communities without charge by the Accident Prevention Program.

Among the kinds of groups which often initiate rescue units are volunteer fire departments, service organizations, and other civil leaders.

A rescue unit should include a vehicle, either ambulance or light panel truck, capable of carrying two stretcher patients. Personnel usually includes fifteen to twenty well-trained volunteers. Kinds of service for which rescue units are called include motor accidents, heart or stroke attacks, falls, home accidents, industrial or woods accidents.

Rescue units often start with second hand ambulances in good condition, a resuscitator, cot, stretcher and blankets, splints and bandages. Financing of rescue units is done either by a voluntary solicitation, fee for services or local appropriations.

The trend toward volunteer rescue units is nationwide, and some states are completely covered, Pactow said. High morale

SKI TIPS

#5 STRAIGHT SNOWPLOW

By Ace Manley
Director, Big Bromley Ski School

The straight snowplow is the skier's first exercise for controlling speed. But it is also the exercise used by most expert skiers for regaining control after attaining too much speed.

It is a good idea to practice the straight snowplow in conjunction with the straight downhill running position.

As the skier moves down the fall line in a running position, he pushes the skis into a "V" or snowplow position: the tips are together and the tails are apart (displaced at equal angles from the body).

The knees and ankles are flexed forward and the weight is equally distributed on both skis. This enables the inside edges of the skis to grip the snow equally as the surface of the skis form right angles to the lower legs.

As the skier moves, his hands are held by the sides and the skis are allowed to slide forward. By pressing the tails of the skis a little further apart and letting the knees come together very slightly, even more control over speed is achieved.

The final movement is allowing the skis to run back together into the straight downhill running position.

Like other exercises, the straight snowplow should be practiced repeatedly before the skier advances to anything more difficult.
